Managing Partner Amy Bingham puts over twenty years' staffing industry sales leadership expertise to work for her clients to help them accelerate growth.

Designing and implementing the right strategy, coaching high-potential leaders, and training sales and recruiting teams are the core competencies of Bingham Consulting.

It is Amy's arsenal of staffing industry best practices that her clients value most. Earlier in her career, working for a global firm provided the foundation for achieving excellence as one of seven elite performers. Today, continual research on emerging industry trends and sales process enhancements equip Amy to help her consulting clients differentiate and stay ahead of the competition.

Committed to the long-term success of the staffing industry at large, Amy speaks at both national and state conferences, blogs, and writes for Staffing Industry Review magazine. She serves on the board of directors of the Florida Staffing Association.

In her spare time, Amy provides leadership coaching to the students of Rollins College Crummer Graduate School of Business and volunteers for Ronald McDonald House Charities of Orlando, Florida.
